

Management's Rights...in a Nutshell

Live Online Training

12noon-3:00pm March 14, 2024 EST

This course teaches that the employment relationship is an enforceable contract wherein management has inherent and enforceable rights. These rights include requiring employees to attend work on a regular basis, give a fair day's work, be subordinate, lawful to directives, perform to standards, get along with others and to be loyal to their employer's lawful business needs. The problem is that the traditional people-oriented style of management has been seriously weakened by 40 years of employee labor and employee rights laws. A performance-oriented model of management based on principles found in contract law, economics and Performance Theory is a more powerful, practical, simpler, and enforceable alternative.

Topics Include:

- Understanding why management must move away from people management and move towards performance management
- Providing support for the fact that courts and arbiters support the enforcement of management rights
- Defining the "Universal Rights" of management
"Manage Performance not Performers"
- Designing the foundation for a performance-oriented style of management

Attendees will receive a certificate of training, a class manual and hard copies of model forms and policies to use as resources for implementing this program into their agency.

(Prior to the class, you will receive by email a login code. A Laptop or desk computer equipped with a microphone & camera (if available) is needed.)
